

Van Buren's music teacher Charisse Angell puts on musicals and plays each year. Next spring, she will be using her grant from Plainfield's Legacy Foundation to put on a Magic Tree House Musical. Miss. Angell says that every year the second graders begin to read the Magic Tree House books and all of the students love the books so much. This was the perfect opportunity to involve other academics into her musical. Miss. Angell loves doing these programs because, the kids absolutely love singing and dancing. Musical theatre allows the children to express themselves and have fun doing it. Thanks to the grant provided by the Legacy Foundation, Miss. Angell can give each of her students their chance to shine.
